

Media corporations can't be trusted to balance themselves. The bottom line is still their driving force.